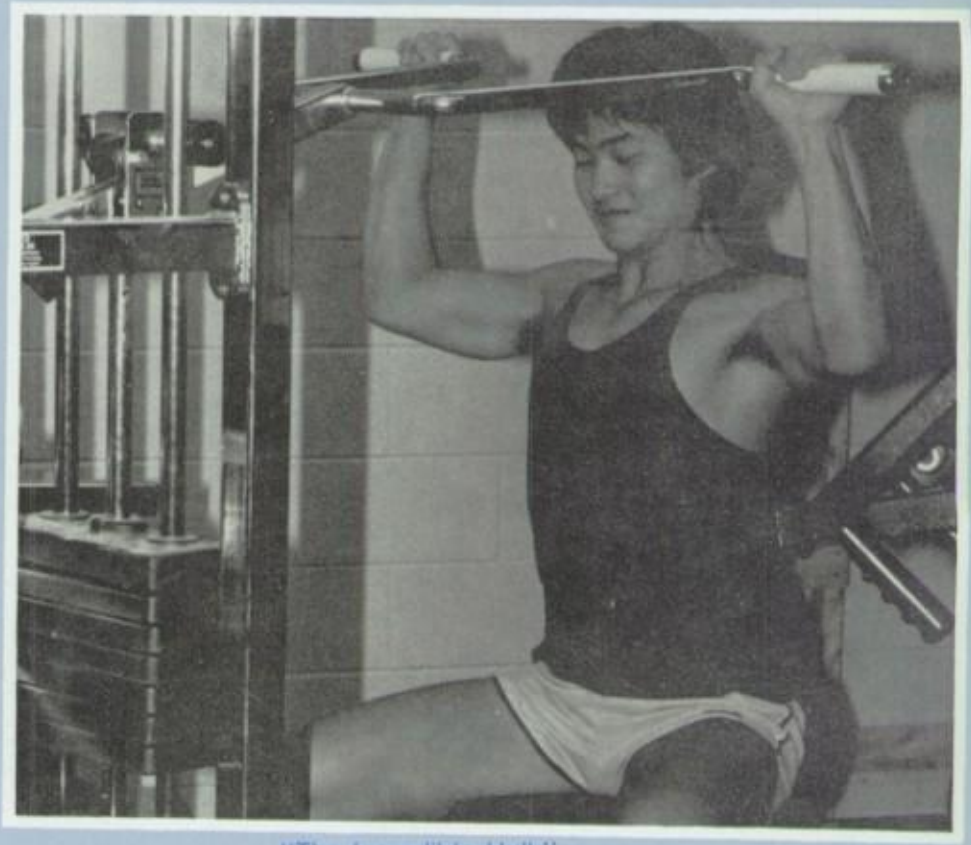
TIMES

What is Time? The shadow on the dial, the striking of the clock, the running of the sand, day and night, summer and winter, months, years, centuries-these are but arbitrary-and outward signs, the measure of Time, not Time itself.
Time is the Life of the soul.

Longfellow

A TIME FOR EVERYONE

"We are the Raiders, mighty mighty Raiders . . .," shouts out Eddie Dunn.



"The Incredible Hulk"

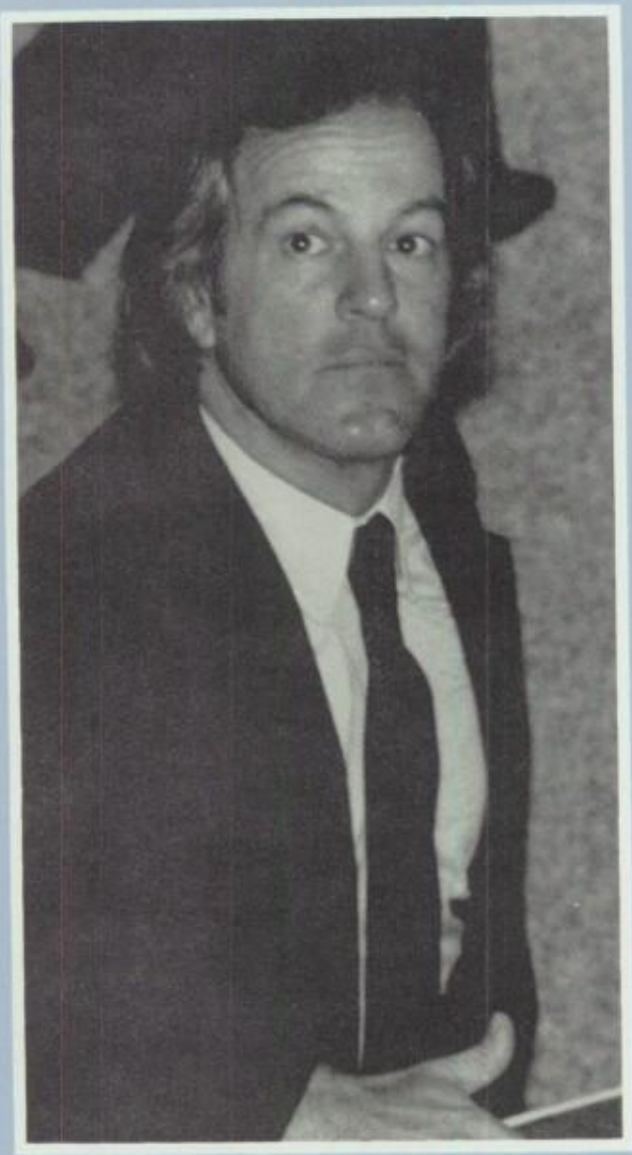
"You wouldn't!" exclaims Karen Sikorski.

Someone always seems to be playing bridge. In this case its John Tappert and Renee Peloquin.

To see the team perform, Roosevelt fans will even endure the cold.

"9:30 is too early to be awake."

"This isn't like it is at home."



"Darn teachers aren't on duty again," says Mr. Ogden.

The Roosevelt Orchestra is truly one of the best. The orchestra was invited to attend Vienna's International Music Festival which will take place in July. This will probably be the most expensive field trip in the school's short six-year history. Eighty students, all members of the prestigious symphony orchestra, will need approximately $104,000 to participate in the festival.

Roosevelt's symphony was one of only 13 orchestras in North America to be invited by Vienna's International Cultural Exchange. The symphony, known as one of the country's best, has traveled as far away as Bermuda to perform.

"They probably picked us because we show a continued excellence in performance," said Mrs. Dorothy Pickard, herself a well-known music teacher and director of the symphony. "They apparently made their choice by checking with the results of the county and state festivals from last year where we achieved straight superior ratings from both the county and state."

The symphony, after accepting the invitation, found itself playing for time as well as enjoyment. And it wasn't the extensive rehearsal schedule that was causing the worry. It was raising the needed funds that caused concern.

ORCHESTRAS

Each student need to pay his or her own way to the tune of $1,300. This included air fare, food, and travel for 13 days and 12 nights in Europe.

Some of the ways students raised money were by selling submarine sandwiches, washing cars, holding flea markets, and selling citrus. They also asked for donations.

This really isn't a bad price when you consider travel costs," Mrs. Pickard said. "We're going to be touring southern Germany and Austria, and we'll be in Vienna for seven days."

In Vienna, the symphony will perform before a five-person jury for ratings and comments. The goal of the symphony, according to Mrs. Pickard, is to be one of the few chosen to perform on Austria's national radio station. Mrs. Pickard didn't know how many groups will be in attendance. There will be, however, groups from all over the world, including high school orchestras, youth orchestras (high school and college-age students) and choruses.

"There's a great deal of work involved for this," Mrs. Pickard said. "You have to be prepared to play two programs, 60 minutes in length.
